

Track compliance carbon costs and strategically manage risks.

OPIS Carbon Market Report assesses the largest compliance carbon markets in the world with reliable and transparent trade-day data.

Market Challenge

There is a rapidly growing number of carbon emissions reduction programs in jurisdictions and regions around the world. Policies such as Cap and Trade, Low Carbon Fuel Standard, Renewable Portfolio Standards and Renewable Fuel Standard impose a growing influence on pricing in traditional fuel and power markets. Managing compliance with these policies can be costly without a clear view of the volatile trading market. To remain profitable, buyers and sellers need daily assessments of fair market value.

How We Help

OPIS Carbon Market Report meets the need for benchmark carbon pricing with comprehensive market coverage. In a single daily report, you gain access to more than 100 carbon and emissions market assessments, and insight into 16 environmental programs including California Carbon Allowances, California Carbon Offsets, Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative Allowances and U.S. Renewable Energy Certificates. Now you can easily navigate the maze of changing climate policies and gain strategic clarity in the decentralized carbon market.

Benefits

- Maximize value by referencing OPIS carbon prices in supply contracts
- Obtain fair-market value for carbon allowances, credits, offsets and renewable certificates acquired in the OTC market
- Use OPIS carbon indices as a basis for price forecasting
- Evaluate price arbitrage opportunities
- Access a Carbon Trade Log to monitor daily confirmed transactions
- Keep up with compliance requirements and fundamentals via breaking news updates
- Assess future compliance costs with extensive forward-market discovery
- Track historical prices to identify trends and mitigate risks
